

Kaleb was playing baseball and he got thrown out of the game. He was so bored watching the game, he decided to see if he could eat a whole bag of sunflowers seeds at once. He swallowed most of them whole from trying to eat so fast. He could feel one lodged in his esophagus. There happened to be a mad scientist Michael Einstein in the crowd. He speed dials his partner Avery Van Einstein who was back in the lab working on a new candy, called Dotts, that allows people to shrink. She teleports to the game in two seconds. Einstein and Van Einstein eat one Dott each. It takes a couple minutes for the Dotts to get into their system and shrink them. They told Kaleb lay on his back with mouth open. Within a few minutes he could feel something going down his throat.

Einstein and Van Einstein slid down his throat like a slide. While going down, they ran into the sunflower seed. They each took their bats, which they were holding while eating the candy, and started whacking away at all the seeds. When the seeds start to break away they each grab one and use it a sled to go down the rest of the esophagus where they land in the liver where it is cushion.

While inside the liver, they find 27 more sunflower seeds, which they have to collect and push to the stomach by hand. In the middle of them transferring the sunflower seeds, they hear a weird noise. They then drop all the sunflower seeds in fear, and go investigate the noise with their baseball bats at the ready. As they get closer to the noise, they can see that it is a white blood cell charging at them. As it approaches them, they prepare to defend themselves in order to save their lives and keep Kaleb alive. After they defeat the white blood cell, they gather up all the sunflower seeds continue on their way to the stomach.

When they reach the stomach, their noses are taken over by a pungent smell, which they soon figure out is the stomach acid. They realize they won't last long if they don't find transportation over the acid. Then both look at each other and realize they are going to have to surf over it on a seed. They each grab a seed and dive in full of anticipation and excitement. They both splash into the acid, safely on their seeds. They begin surfing through the stomach when Avery looks down and realizes her board is disintegrating beneath her. She alerts Michael about her board, and he quickly realizes that his is disintegrating as well. Acting fast, they jump onto a nearby piece of broccoli and safely ride it out of the stomach and into the large intestine.

As they enter the large intestine, they quickly realize the intestine is bouncy like a trampoline. Bouncing around in the large intestine, they are able to reach the small intestine very quickly. Once into the small intestine, they realize that it is the complete opposite of the large, being squishy and soft. Being incredibly dark in the small intestine they both pull out their cell phones and use their flashlights to see. As they make their way through the small intestine they come upon a blockage. With only two minutes left before they grow full size, they need to whack out the blockage with their handy dandy baseball bats. As they continue to whack, Kaleb feels a sharp anal pain. At the exact moment, he happens to sneeze. Avery and Michael come SHOOTING out of his anus along with 2 pounds of digested sunflower seeds. At the exact moment they come shooting out the candy wears off and Avery and Michael grow back to full size.
